BREED THEATER.

"The Gambler's Influence," Brilliant

Feature Today. One of the real choice bits of motion One of the real choice bits of motion picture accomplishment at the Breed today is the delightfully refreshing and breezy western story entitled "The Gambler's Influence." This is a Lubin film, which fact alone is a guarantee of its excellence and superiority. The story is a most interesting one, and keeps one wide awake during its entire presentation. A young lad rebels at his father's strict discipline, and upon leaving home, bound for the west, falls into the cabin of a gambler. This is the home of a thoroughbred sport, ralls into the cabin of a gambler. This is the home of a thoroughbred sport, but he takes kindly to the young lad from the rural section and endeavors to make a man of him. However, the wilful spirit of the boy prevails, and he also takes to gambling. He even parts with the ring his sweetheart gave him on their parting day. The sweetheart, having waited in vain to hear from him, resolves to find him. She locates his town, and cabin, and while she is shown the boy's cabin-She locates his town, and cabin, and while she is shown the boy's cabin-home, the gambler-friend attempts to locate him, and finally finds him just as he is about to hold up the daily coach. The gambler tells him his sweetheart has come all the way to see him, and he is shown the folly or his ways, and a promise is made that the straight and narrow path shall be his, thereafter.

his, thereafter.

Life on the battleship Connecticut is another interesting industrial and educational reel, and proves to be one of the hits of the bill.

At the Greeney

A delightful picture treat is in store for the patrons of the Breed Monday and Tuesday of the coming week, for the mammoth scenic production entitled Auld Lang Syne, is the feature.

This great attraction is in two reels, and is over 2 000 feet long, requiring and is over 2,000 feet long, requiring nearly an hour to present it, and the management makes this announcewith the assurance that this pic ture is one of surpassing beauty, dramatically, scenicially and photo-graphically. As the title suggests, the story is founded on Burns' Scotch song and poem, which is known the world over for its charm and appeal to the To accommodate the usual large crown at these extra attractions the evening performances will begin at 7

THE AUDITORIUM. Alfredo Plays a Return Engagement Here on Monday.

All will remember the wonderful box will remember the wonderful boy violinist who played here but a few weeks ago with such tremendous success. The management of the Anditorium realizing the strong impression which the young man made on his audience while here, immediately securified by for resummentations. At Christ Episcopal church there three days, beginning next week Monday. This week is postively the last appearance of this exceptional violinist one what are known as the 'smail time houses," of which the Auditorium is one, and the week after next Alfredo opens in a big New York theater and from there starts on a forty week tour of the big cities of the United States and receives a salary almost four of the big cities of the United States and receives a salary almost four times as large as he has been playing the small time house for. There are hundreds of people who will see Alfredo at this house next week for the fredo at this house next week for the second time. There are also two other than the second time are also two others. The service will speak the service of the service than the service will speak the service than second time. There are also two other fine acts on Monday's bill, besides the exceptional metion pictures of the manoeuvres and review of the big battleship feet which was in the Hudson river two weeks ago and which attracted thousands of people from all ever the country. The pictures are exceptionally good and all who can should see them.

AT POLI'S.

For next week the Poll Players have prepared another society drama. The Wife, by David Belasco and Henry C. DeMille. This is a play in which com-edy, heart interest and drama are closely interwoven in a most successful measure, and the scene is laid in the drawing rooms of New York and Washington, giving opportunities for brightness in setting and dressing. The brightness in setting and dressing. The comedy element is strong and a ords more than the average amount of hearty laughter throughout the time of the play. The full strength of the company will again be in evidence and the various players are by now so well known that they are received with welcoming receptions all around. On Monday afternoon and night folder souvenirs of Miss Fay Baker will be presented to the ladies attending either performance. These souvenirs contain a pretty portrait and a sketch of Miss Baker's theatrical career, and are pretty as well as interesting. Matinees will be given every day, as usual.

Have Home-cooked Waffles-Good as a Chef Can Make

Your wife, your mother, your sister can make waffles at their best with the Griswold Waffle Iron.

Pallure will be out of the question, because the thick, heavy pans of the Grisweld distribute heat evenly. Hence, Griswold-baked waffles are uniform—a rich, golden brown—neither scorched nor doughy.

Hot, crisp and light, smothered with owdered sugar or maple syrup, they'll empt every member of the family.

"Obey that impulse"—order today a deep ring waffle iron designed for gas range use, price one dollar. Vulcan gas range cake griddles at same price. Those Regner reflector gas haders. Those Regnor reflector gas heaters are going fast—they turn cold to comfort.

BEAUTY.

Beauty was born of the world's desire For the wandering water, the wander-For the wandering water, the wander-ing fire.
Under the arch of her hurrying feet
She has trodden a world full of bitter sweet.

The blood of the violet is in her veins. Her pulse has the pussion of April rains.
Out of the heart of a satin flower God made her cyclids in one sweet hour.

Out of the wind He made her feet, That they might be lovely and luring and fleet. Out of a cloud He wove her hair, Henvy and black with the rain held there.

What is her name? There's none that Mother-o'-Mischlef, or Mouth-o'-Rose, What is her pathway? None may tell, But it climbs to heaven and it dips to hell.

The garment on her is mist and fire. Anger and sorrow, and heart's desire. Her forehead jewel's an amethyst, The garland to her is love-in-a-mist. Her girdle is of the beryl-stone, And one dark rose for her flower has Filled to the rim with the strength o' the sun,

A passionate rose, and only one. The bird in her breast sing all day A wonderful, wistful, whispering sons:
The song that is of all passing things.
None knows it—kingless or born with wings.

EARLY FRIENDSHIP. The half-seen memories of childish The half-seen memories of childlen days

When pains and pleasures lightly came and went;

The sympathies of boyhood rashly spent

In fearful wanderings through forbidden ways:

The vague but manly wish to tread the mage

Of life to noble ends—whereon intent. Asking to know for what man here is sent.

The bravest heart must often pause, and gaze.

The firm resolve to seek the chosen of manhood's judgment, cautious and friend to friend.

With strength, no selfish purpose can secure:

My bappy lot is this, that all attend that friendship which first came, and which shall last endure.

—Aubrey De Vere.
